DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of the restriction requirement in the reply filed on 4/6/07 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the inventions of Groups I-V are one unitary invention in that they all share the same special technical features as they all depend from claim 33. This is not found persuasive because as Applicant point out, the requirement for unity of invention is "Where a group of inventions is claimed in an application, the requirement of unity of invention shall be fulfilled only when there is a technical relationship among those inventions involving one or more of the same or corresponding special technical features. The expression "special technical features" shall mean those technical features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art. The features of claim 33, which Applicant argues are special technical features ; temperature sensor, a connecting portion, and a filter are part of all of the claims as all of the claims depend from claim 33. However, these features are special technical features as defined above as these features do not define the invention over the prior art.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 12/22/06 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 33-35, 52, 53, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being anticipated by Castle USPN 5261874 in view of Ahmad et al. USPN 5588959. Castle describes an extra-corporeal blood access sensing, and radiation method and apparatus comprises a line 14 for taking blood from a patient, a pump 18, and inlet 16 to return blood to a patient with sensor 57, a temperature sensor 19 connected to the line, a device 3 for measuring the intensity of the radiation, a connecting portion 4 (col. 5, line 68 through col. 6, line 5). The blood is subjected to electromagnetic waves (col. 1, lines 15-21).

Art Unit: 3761

The measuring is housed in housing 17 behind a window 32,34. Castle teaches a blood purification means (col. 4, lines 1-8; lines 49-62). The article of Castle further comprises a dilution none (col. 8, lines 27-43). Castle does not specifically disclose first and second signals, however, Castle does teach a means for controlling the temperature. Ahmad teaches a temperature control means for the benefit of controlling and/or changing the temperature of the blood returning to the patient (Ahmad col. 5, lines 20-30). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the invention of Castle with a temperature control means for the benefits taught in Ahmad
